

Chipmunks

Chipmunks are eight inches long including their tails. They have light and dark stripes on their faces, backs, and sides. The rest of their backs, legs, and tails are reddish brown.

Chipmunks live in Asia and North America. They like areas with trees, shrubs, and rocks.

Chipmunks live in burrows that they dig. The burrows can have several entrances and tunnels.

Chipmunks eat seeds, nuts, fruits, and grains. They store food for the winter in their burrow.

In the winter, chipmunks sleep. Sometimes they'll wake up to eat. Then they go back to sleep.

There are chipmunks in Ohio. They can live in Ohio's temperatures. There are plenty of trees and shrubs for them. They can find enough food.

