

Vincent van Gogh

“Starry Night”

Submitted by Allison Delisio, 2011

I had the children finger paint. I took the coloring page into Kinko’s and enlarged it to fit to the size of my finger painting pad (16x20). I then traced the line drawing so the kids would get an idea of where objects are in the painting. The kids did a great job, it wasn't too messy, but we did use a whole pack of baby wipes! I was amazed at how many kids said they have never finger painted! The next day the teacher had the kids put on "bling" stickers where the stars were. They turned out really cute and the kids had fun getting messy! I also sent home coloring pages and another paper with the artists picture and copy of the painting.

