

Mary Cassatt

"Children on the Beach, 1884"

Submitted by Diane Agresta and Farzana Kawser, 2011

Farzana and I gave the presentations to the two first grade classes of Mrs. Tarka and Mrs. Klein. We had the children do "a day at the beach" based on Mary Cassatt's "Children at the Beach" painting. I had their supply of foamy stickers cut out, bagged and ready to go.

They were able to add any other items that they wanted to, i.e.: pale, shovel, beach chair, children, etc. I've attached the sample of one of the children.

I cut out the sand castles with pinking shears and layered the pieces. (Sand castle stickers from the craft store range from $3 to $4.) Some pieces I had and then I just cut out shapes to fit the theme...the waves of the water already placed on a split paper of sandy beige and light blue for the sky.
